Extremely fine, and the execution of the finest period of art, 412 to 345 B. C. Excessively rare. Weight 65¼ grains. Size 10. Mionnet pl. 65, fig. 1, No. 759. The retail price of this piece was $100, and it is now limited at $80. A similar specimen in the Thomas sale, London, 1844, No. 135, brought £18.4, and judging by the advancement of the prices of Ancient coins in Europe, it would bring more to-day.

Bruttium is the extreme southern portion of Italy, and in it Hannibal made his final stand against the Romans. At the close of the Second Punic War in 202 B. C., the Brettii were entirely subdued, and reduced to the condition of slaves.

The sea-coast of Bruttium was inhabited by Greek colonists, and this piece was probably executed by them, as it is an exquisite specimen of Greek art.
